Following a riotous run of sold out EU/UK tour dates and a hugely successful Record Store Day split release with We Are Scientists, art rock favourites ART BRUT return triumphant with valiant new single 'Your Enemies Are My Enemies Too'.

The news comes ahead of a run of festival appearances over the coming months, including Long Division Festival in Wakefield on 1st June and a very special London show on 17th May for Alcopop! Records' Top of The Alcopops! event.

Commenting on the track, front man Eddie Argos says: "People in love look out for each other. One of the best things about being in a relationship is getting to double your list of enemies. This song is about that."

The single is the last to be taken from their critically-acclaimed new album Wham! Bang! Pow! Let's Rock Out! out now on Alcopop! Records, hailed as their finest release to date by press, and their first new album for 7 years.

Produced by award-winning folk musician Jim Moray, Wham! Bang! Pow! Let's Rock Out! is Art Brut at their pop band best, exploring their most accomplished and innovative work to date. Support for the band's return flooded in from Pitchfork, Rolling Stone, NME, The 405, Clash, Classic Rock, UNCUT, Louder Than War, Dork, The i Newspaper, The Skinny Magazine, London in Stereo and many more international publications.

Their latest singles hit the 'Alt Rocked' and 'Transistor' playlists on Spotify, with continued support from BBC 6music, Radio X, Amazing Radio and more.

Wham! Bang! Pow! Let's Rock Out! is released 23rd November via Alcopop! Records
